Dr. Yinghuei Chen is currently the Dean of the International College as well as the Dean of the College of Humanities and Social Sciences at Asia University. He is a professor of English literature at the Department of Foreign Languages and Literature, focusing his research on the Victorian literature, the English novel, new English literature(s) and English for Specific Purposes (ESP). He obtained his doctoral degree in English Literature at the University of Maryland, College Park, in February 1991, with the support of a Fulbright scholarship and a grant from the National Science Council (now the Ministry of Science and Technology), Taiwan. Since his return to Taiwan in 1991, he has taught at various universities, both national and private, including National Sun Yat-sen University, National Kaohsiung First University of Science and Technology, Fooyin University, and Asia University, just to name a few.

Aside from his teaching, Dr. Chen has served as chair and dean at more than five universities. His strength, in particular, lies in his ability to organize and coordinate academic programs and administrative duties. His research areas mainly lie in Victorian literature, Post-colonial literature, and ESP. Dr. Chen is also a material writer and has recently published The Joy of Literature and English for Hospitality and Tourism. He is now writing a book on the Victorian novelists, a critical re-reading and re-interpreting of classic texts. Dr. Chen was the former President of the Taiwan ESP Association and served as TESOL ESP IS Chair of 2012-13. He also received the award of “Asia Education Leadership” in 2019, an honor conferred by the World Education Congress.
